My worry with "year" is that I'm hearing from parents of students in the Class of 2018 who are concerned it will say Kinder on their diplomas. Maybe "school year"?

All looks great to me!

Is it OK to change to the "year" the downtown school opens? Alene and I discussed we would kick off that year (August) with the excitement of moving in the fall and start calling it Kinder....

All, several calls today from people concerned about "KHSPVA" – Scott has his email ready to go, and I suggest we add this section. Scott, please give us 10 minutes to provide approval or suggestions to what is listed below. All, note, I'm being very careful here – walking a thin line based on conversations with the donors and HISD. The bullets are not open for allot of addition.

Also, I'd like to make sure there is no confusion about the name of the new school. The Houston Chronicle mentioned "KHSPVA" in their story last night, however that was an error that was corrected in the print edition today. Here are the facts:

- If the HISD board approves the gift, the name of the new school goes into effect the day the new campus opens

- The official name will be “Kinder High School for the Performing Arts” and “Kinder HSPVA”
- The donor understands that HSPVA and PVA are frequently used by the HSPVA community of alumni, parents and students, and will continue to be used in the future.
